

Support Worcester

The University of Worcester is committed to ensuring that every student gets the maximum benefit from their time here. Our emphasis is not only on the fundamental values of university education, but on equipping our graduates with the skills to make major contributions in many fields of work all around the world.

Our students and staff are renowned for their talent and for the valuable contribution they make to the community – as nurses, teachers, coaches, midwives, entrepreneurs, scientists, artists and more. It is our job to help them fulfil their promise.

Professor David Green - Vice Chancellor and Chief Executive

Worcester has transformed into a university city, culturally enriching students and increasing income for the region. Education provides solutions to many of the problems that face society.

By investing in us you are also investing in a better future for students and the long-term health of the nation through an increased skilled workforce.
