HOW COULD A STUDENT HELP YOUR ORGANISATION?

Community First is a charity that focuses on creating sustainable communities and thriving organisations in Worcestershire and Herefordshire. At the beginning of this year the organisation launched a health and wellbeing initiative and, as part of their strategy, their plan was to develop a new web presence: Community hwb.

To assist with developing this project, the organisation required help from one of the University of Worcester's students, Breda O'Hare. This supported the organisation in fulfilling the CSR objectives and developing the partnership with the University of Worcester. The organisation highly appreciated Breda's flexibility, commitment and skills.

Furthermore, Community First had an overall extremely positive experience while working with our student. Lizzie Smith, Interim Development Manager said: "Our entire experience was very good. We would absolutely encourage other organisations to offer students an opportunity to develop their skills whilst working towards organisational goals and we hope to have another student in 2014/2015."
