Here's an insider's guide
to the application process and life
on campus

Deciding whether to go to university, getting to grips with UCAS applications and preparing for campus life are important issues for lots of students.

An insider's guide to university

But with a maze of information available - from official websites, parents, advisors, friends, social media - where is the best place to start finding the facts?

Insider's Guide talks, delivered by recent graduates, are a friendly and informative first step on the road to university.

Don't be afraid to ask questions and get answers and advice from someone who's been there.

Meet Rosa Kennard

Psychology
BSc (Hons)

When I left 6th form, I didn't know what I wanted to do - I hadn't achieved grades good enough to attend university and I felt completely lost. I spent two years gaining valuable experience in both paid and volunteer work, and also managed to get a bit of travelling under my belt. It was whilst I was in America that I realised my interest in human behaviour and I applied to the University of Worcester - I was overjoyed at receiving a place to study Psychology here.

"Learning about the anatomy of the brain and what function each part plays was one of my favourite areas of psychology. It's so much more than 'reading' people's minds, it's all about understanding them."

Psychology has been an eye opener; it's given me a whole new perspective on life and an insight into the whys and whats of the world. I've made true friendships with people who value the same things as I do and my time as a student has given me opportunities in all walks of life. I worked for the NUS (National Union of Students) alongside my degree on an environmental project for the last two years, which has given me new experiences as well as some financial support. Going to University has been one of the best decisions I have ever made.
