Dr Lefteris Kailoglou

Institute of Humanities

Contact Details

email: e.kailoglou@worc.ac.uk
tel: 01905 855296

Dr Lefteris Kailoglou is the Course Leader for English Language. He has been working at the University of Worcester from 2011, and previously taught at the University of Essex and University of Sussex.

Lefteris currently teaches:

- ELAN1006 Foundations of sociolinguistics
- ELAN2000 Approaches to Language
- ELAN2009 Researching Language Variation
- ELAN3004 World Englishes
- ELAN3010 Language Style and Identity

Lefteris has also been supervising a number of dissertations on sociolinguistic variation in Worcester as well as topics on language and identity. He has also been involved in the establishment of the Worcester dialect archive which is located within the Institute.

Teaching & Research

The focus of Lefteris's research is on the relation between language and subculture and how different groups of people construct their identity using specific stylistic features. It is inter-disciplinary in nature, drawing on ideas and theories from cultural studies, discourse analysis, linguistic anthropology and social theory in order to understand sociolinguistic variation.

His current project is regarding a sociologically oriented critique of sociolinguistic methodology.

Professional Bodies

Linguistics Association of Great Britain (LAGB)

Publications

Publications

External Responsibilities

© University of Worcester Henwick Grove, WR2 6AJ Tel: 01905 855000 - Last reviewed: Thursday, 22 November 2018

Page can be found:

Home / Discover Worcester / Academic departments / Institute of Humanities / Meet our Humanities experts / Dr Lefteris Kailoglou

http://www.worcester.ac.uk/courses/dr-eleftherios-kailoglou.html