

Media and Cultural Studies MPhil/PhD

Key features of this course:

The University of Worcester welcomes applications to undertake research towards MPhil and PhD degrees in Media and Cultural Studies.

Research at Worcester has grown significantly in recent years. We aim to produce research that is distinctive, socially and culturally relevant, and that influences national agendas. We continually strive to develop new areas of research excellence while, in certain areas, our work has already been acknowledged as world-leading.

As a research student you will join a vibrant student community in our Research School and become part of our dynamic research environment. You will have the opportunity to be supervised by leading researchers in your field and to take advantage of our rich Researcher Development programme. This will help you develop the skills and knowledge you need to complete your research degree while enhancing the skills you will need in any future career.

Our MPhil/PhD research degree programme offers you:

Wide variety of research interests

The Institute of Humanities has a strong mix of academics with a high degree of professional and personal experience, enabling you to get the most out of your programme. Our staff have expertise in environmental representation in the media and popular culture, and gender, children, and television.

Excellent supervision

Benefit from a professional and challenging relationship with your supervisory team, drawn from experienced academics working at the forefront of their disciplines.

Resources

With study space and IT provision in the Research Office, and access to the University of Worcester's virtual resources and state of the art library facilities, the Media and Cultural Studies team at Worcester have an excellent range of resources to support your learning and research project.

How to apply

Apply for this course - full time Apply for this course - part time

Please make your application via our online application form. If you have any questions, please contact the Research School on 01905 542182 or research@worc.ac.uk

Before you submit a full application, please contact Research School (research@worc.ac.uk) to discuss your research project and the availability of appropriate supervision.

Supervisors

Dr Barbara Mitra

Expertise: gender; beauty; advertising and children; television.

Dr John Parham

Expertise: green media and popular culture.
